FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Texas, United States – Christian author Adam Gellert’s book, “Activation: A Story of God’s Transforming Power,” was announced the winner of the Henri Award (Non-Fiction category), earlier this month at the 2016 Christian Literary Awards in Hurst, Texas. Written from the life and faith of Adam Gellert, ‘Activation’ hands readers the bold opportunity to embark on the greatest adventure they’ll ever experience – the adventure of a new life at the hands of God. Adam is himself a recipient of an “activation” from God, and is now passionate about sharing his story and its opportunity with millions of people around the world.

“I am ecstatic that my personal story of how God activated my life, and the lessons that apply to all of us, was selected to receive the prestigious Henri Award,” said Gellert. “It’s rewarding to know that the judges found this book to be of the quality deserving of such an award, in addition to having a message that resonates with readers.”

Joy A. Lewis, President of Joy & Company, along with Rosemary Legrand began a book club in 2002, which eventually led to book reviews on radio and TV, and ultimately this year’s 6th annual Christian Literary Awards. Through this and other events, they honor authors and individuals who have contributed to the literary community.
